NORTHCLIFFE SCORES CENSORSHIP POLICY

NEW YORK, N. Y., June 29.-Lord Northeliffe, owner of the London Times and special representative of his government in this country, hopes that the United States will be able to avoid the censorship muddle that has proved such a thorn in the side of the British public ever since the war with the Huns began.

In a statement made at a gathering of magazine workers and owners last night the great British journalist de-clared that his country has suffered acutely at times from the effect of the censorship muddle, and added that the salient features of policy and the important developments on the battle fronts must be told to the people so that they might know what their servants in public office are do-

"They have reasons and more or less good reasons for their censorship pleas," said Lord Northcliffe, "but none of them are as important to the welfare of the nation as is the need that the people shall be acquainted with the best and the worst that is going on. The citizens of a democracy are not babes that the bad news should be kept from them, but men trained to face bad news and to turn it into good.

"I sincerely hope that the people of the United States and their governtimes but it is needed how more than ever if you are to avoid the pit-falls into which other less fortunate na-tions tumbled when this war began." The speaker also asserted that America must take a leaf out of the book of her allies across the Atlantic and mobilize her industries as speedfly as possible. He pointed out that one of the things that we can do and do speedily would be to send automobiles and chauffeurs to France and Flanders where they are badly needed. He forecast the time when there will be a hundred thousand American auto drivers in and near the war fronts.
